OCTOBER IS DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH

Domestic Violence Awareness Month was in 1981 following a “Day of Unity” event hosted by the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence. Domestic Violence Awareness Month is now recognized nationwide and has been instrumental in highlighting the dangers of domestic violence. Through grassroots outreach efforts, media events, and client advocacy the domestic violence movement is able to use the testimony of victims to educate the public. Throughout the month, coalitions and agencies host programs and events within the community to inform people about domestic violence. Stakeholders use that time to explain what domestic violence is, who it affects, and available resources.

One of the major obstacles for victims of domestic violence is lack of funding for the victims. Inadequate funds leave victims to fend for themselves as they try to access safe housing, transportation, and counseling. The Crime Victims Compensation Program (CVCP) assists victims of violent crime with the financial burdens brought by tragic occurrences through reimbursement or direct payment to providers for necessary services. Some of those services include payment for medical treatments, medications, mental health counseling, funeral and burial cost, lost wages, crime scene clean up, temporary emergency shelter, and moving expenses.

The Metropolitan Police Department is working to increase community consciousness about the problem of domestic violence. In recognition of domestic violence awareness month, MPD has produced several brochures to educate the public about different aspects of domestic violence. These pamphlets include information on elder abuse, domestic violence in the workplace, domestic abuse in lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender relationships, domestic abuse during pregnancy, domestic violence amongst teens, violence targeted at male victims, and the harmful effects of domestic violence witnessed by children. Additionally, there are informational brochures on steps that can be taken to escape domestic violence situations, such as the procedure for obtaining a civil protection order and the process for creating a safety plan.

DC311 FREE SMARTPHONE APP OFFERS ALTERNATIVE METHOD TO REPORTING SERVICE REQUESTS

The DC311 smartphone app is a free download that allows citizens to report service requests from their iPhone or Android mobile devices. There are a large number of different service requests to choose from, including complaints about trash, potholes, graffiti and illegal dumping.

This tool, together with the Citywide Call Center and 311Online, is yet another way the community can report a problem. Information from all these sources is funneled into one database for tracking and resolution. The free app automatically pinpoints the location of the reported problem using GPS technology. Registered users can also attach a photo and provide the exact location for the service request. Once the request is submitted, users will receive an e-mail from 311 confirming receipt of the request, including the service request number. They will also receive a follow-up e-mail when the request has been closed by the servicing agency. Citizens can also track the status of their requests any time.
