WE ARE
WASHINGTON
DC GOVERNMENT OF THE
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
MURIEL BOWSER, MAYOR

Pursuant to D.C. Official Code § 5-132.02(d)(1), the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) is required to publish a plan to be implemented before the beginning of each school year for protecting children walking to and from District of Columbia Public Schools (DCPS) and Public Charter Schools (DCPCS) and for protecting children from gang and crew violence on, in, and around DCPS and public charter school property. This report is provided in compliance with this Act.

OVERVIEW OF MPD SCHOOL SECURITY & SAFETY PROGRAM

The Department's role in school safety expanded significantly in 2004 when the Council of the District of Columbia enacted the School Safety and Security Procedures Act of 2004, delegating the sole contracting authority for security services at DCPS facilities from DCPS to MPD. In the ensuing decade, we have continued to strengthen our partnership with the District's public schools in safeguarding District students. Now, MPD manages more than 300 contractual security guards deployed to 114 DCPS facilities. With contractual security guards, deployment can be changed to address emerging issues. Additional guard hours are provided at certain sites for before and after care programs, sporting events, and other activities at school facilities which may or may not involve students (e.g., community groups meeting in school facilities). The school security contract, valued at almost $20 million, is MPD's largest contract.

Managing school security at DCPS is only one of the many roles through which the Department works to safeguard students in the District. Two MPD units have primary responsibility for working together to support safe schools: the School Safety Division and the patrol districts. The School Safety Division (SSD), under the leadership of the Assistant Chief of Police, Investigative Services Bureau, coordinates MPD resources related to school safety. These resources include the deployment of contract security guards at DCPS, and School Resource Officers (SROs) working with DCPS and DC Public Charter Schools. The Assistant Chief also oversees coordination with the Patrol Services Bureau in the Department along with government agencies and community interests in the city.

School Safety Division

The goal of SSD is to work with other stakeholders to support a safe learning environment for all students. The School Resource Officers (SROs) are MPD police officers with specialized training and experience in working with youth and serving as a resource to a school and its staff. The SROs are required to meet all standard police training requirements, support prosecution of any arrests, and possibly respond to emergencies in close proximity to their assigned schools. While the SROs can and do make arrests when necessary, they work with schools, other District agencies, and community groups to pursue alternative methods for addressing disorder and conflict. In addition, SROs:

- Coordinate mediations and response to conflicts that have happened or may happen off school grounds;

- Coordinate the Safe Passage Program to provide safe routes for youth to and from secondary schools;
- Provide mentoring and outreach programs, such as seminars/assemblies and presentations on trending topics that may impact public safety, including bullying, drug use, social media, and gangs, and other issues, such as cell phone theft and synthetic marijuana;
- Conduct school security assessments focused on crime prevention through environmental design, and participate in security meetings with the school administration;
- Provide support to at-risk youth, by conducting home visits to chronic truants or suspended students, visits to group homes, and seminars to designated youth; and
- Visit and work with the schools that feed into middle and high schools.

In the 2017-2018 school year (SY17/18), SROs will continue to be deployed pursuant to the “cluster model,” supporting and being accountable for multiple schools. While high schools receive the most attention due to size and complexity of issues, SROs also provide outreach and conduct presentations to elementary and middle schools. In addition, an evening team of SROs supports extended school days and sporting and entertainment events for students. They also offer programming for the adult student population.

To ensure that all partners are prepared for SY17/18, SSD officials are meeting with school leadership. The teams review topics such as the role of SROs, communicating with MPD, securing school property, and security assessments. This is also an important opportunity for discussing any concerns of superintendents and principals. School leaders are encouraged to include SROs in regular security meetings. In addition, SSD is holding individual meetings with new high school principals.

Patrol Districts

In coordination with SSD, MPD’s seven patrol districts take the lead in safeguarding students outside the schools, and provide support in combating truancy and ensuring the safe travel of students to and from school. Each district has two truancy officers assigned to enforce truancy violations during the school day. They visit areas where youth are known to hang out or follow tips from the public about “skip parties” or other incidents, and take these youth back to their assigned school. The districts will also strategically deploy their truancy officers to areas where information suggests that youth are committing criminal activity while being truant from school. During the 2016-17 school year, MPD picked up youth for truancy violations more than 3,100 times. Truancy officers and SROs conduct outreach to students and parents as well as conduct home visits to chronic truants.

With the start of the school year, each police district commander will adopt a school and visit the principal and students. District officers will provide visibility at various bus stops and Metro stations during after school hours and increased attention to traffic violations, including speeding in school zones and illegally passing school buses. In addition, MPD partners with the Office of Mayor Muriel Bowser to support volunteers deploying at ten Metro stations or corridors¹ on the first Monday and Friday of the school year to support safe travels for the students and awareness in the community.

The Special Liaison Branch (SLB) also plays an important role in supporting students. The SLB supports historically underserved communities, including the District's African, Asian, Deaf and Hard of Hearing, Latino, LGBT, and religious minority communities. The SLB assists victims of crimes, including students and their families, and supports youth-oriented events in these communities.

GANG & CREW VIOLENCE IN SCHOOLS

The presence of criminal gangs in the District is a significant concern to MPD and the community. Criminal gangs can contribute to tragic violence and other destabilizing crime, disorder, and intimidation in the city. Although some gangs use the word "crew" in their name, MPD identifies a gang as any group that meets the definition of a criminal street gang under District law:

- (1) "Criminal street gang" means an association or group of 6 or more persons that:
 - (A) Has as a condition of membership or continued membership, the committing of or actively participating in committing a crime of violence, as defined by D.C. Official Code § 23-1331(4); or
 - (B) Has as one of its purposes or frequent activities, the violation of the criminal laws of the District, or the United States, except for acts of civil disobedience. D.C. Official Code § 22-951(e).

Groups that do not meet the definition of a criminal gang are often generically referred to as neighborhood crews. Some of these groups may actually use the name of a gang, but may not be engaged in any criminal activity. Moreover, whereas adult crews are more likely to be neighborhood based, open enrollment (as compared to neighborhood-based schools) contributes to a more fluid membership. Although a school group may self-identify with a neighborhood, often only a few of the members are actually from that neighborhood. For the sake of simplicity, since the police identification of a group may differ markedly from the self-identified label, we will refer to them all as "gangs" in this report. Regardless of what they are called, gang members do attend all high schools and most middle schools in the city. That said, although adult gang participation in the city may be reflected in the schools, it is important to recognize that it also differs substantially. The majority of the violence associated with gangs is committed by adults. Most gangs are not committing violence in the schools, and the overwhelming majority of youth are not involved in violent crime. Over the past year, MPD generally observed less gang conflict during the school day than in years past. There were, however, some conflicts after school, near Safe Passage routes, and in conjunction with after school sporting events. Social media continues to facilitate or drive “beefs” – including fights and assaults – among youth.

Hybrid crews/gangs continue to play a large role in violent crime throughout the city. These hybrid crews are comprised of members from all sections of the city and the surrounding jurisdictions who meet up and continue to focus their activities around robberies, carjackings, assaults, and retail/commercial thefts. Social media plays a prominent role in how these crews communicate both internally and with rival crews. The Department’s Intelligence Branch works with school administrators as well as SROs daily to stay current with new trends involving the established crews, as well as the new crews that may form throughout the year.

The Department’s gang strategy starts in elementary school with anti-bullying and anti-gang messaging. Bullying behavior is a serious issue that, absent appropriate intervention, may be an early indicator of a pattern of intimidation in later years. MPD presents anti-bullying seminars at elementary schools and coordinates interventions with parents upon the request of the school. MPD also works in partnership with other government and community groups to communicate strong and consistent anti-gang messaging and offer opportunities for positive activities to students of all ages.

Needless to say, anti-gang efforts continue with older students. The SROs provide strong support to youth in addressing problems both in and out of the school. The SROs work with students daily, developing a strong rapport and learning about their communities and concerns. Consistent, positive relationships with adults are a benefit to youth in their own right, but these relationships also lead youth to share important information with SROs about developing “beefs” or feuds arising among gangs. Relevant information is then shared with the Department’s Intelligence Branch, which works closely with other government agencies and community groups to identify youth in need so that they can work to provide services and mediate conflict.

The Department also monitors open source social media sites to gain more information about on-going or emerging conflicts. Additionally, SROs may hear information each morning about incidents that occurred outside of school the night or weekend before. In these instances, the SROs are able to quickly identify the persons involved in the incident and then marshal resources and assistance to diffuse the incident and support a peaceful learning environment. The Department works closely with schools in these efforts to deter violence and to provide preventative support to youth.

Of course, a key component of violence prevention is the weapons abatement efforts used by security guards when students enter schools. During the 2016-2017 school year, security continued to identify a significant number of students trying to enter schools with weapons, including knives, mace/pepper spray, box cutters, stun guns, BB guns, and firearms.

The Department works continuously to identify emerging trends that could lead to issues within the schools. It hosts a daily afternoon conference call with partner agencies and contract security to discuss issues occurring in the schools. When it seems that a situation may be developing or a critical incident has occurred outside of the school that may impact students, SROs will meet with the administration and help to develop a safety strategy or provide mediation with the involved parties. In addition, MPD works with DCPS and the charter schools to identify scheduled events held at the schools that may require additional security or alternative planning due to the possibility of an incident occurring.

Unfortunately, interventions are not always successful. When violence breaks out, MPD quickly devotes resources – both operational and analytical – to prevent retaliatory violence, some of which is associated with gang violence. Intelligence analysts immediately examine key factors in shootings (e.g., location, people, and weapons) to identify relevant trends. Information about potential groups – including gangs – or locations that might be involved in retaliatory violence is quickly disseminated. MPD and partner agencies can rapidly respond with a variety of tactics, such as enhancing visible police presence, mediating conflicts, and increasing visits to high risk individuals.

Lastly, it is important to recognize that youth can also be victimized by violence as a result of bullying or other destructive relationships. For instance, domestic violence is not limited to just the individuals in relationships; it can also involve real or potential rivals, friends, or family members of youth in relationships. Thus the support and programs offered by MPD do not just focus on gang conflict and violent crime. Mediation services are available for any interpersonal conflict. In addition to Advanced Youth Training, the SROs participate in training on issues related to youth dating violence, as well as working with youth who may witness domestic violence in the home. Most SROs have also been trained and certified by the Department of Health in conjunction with MPD's Metropolitan Police Academy as Crisis Intervention Officers.

SAFE PASSAGE-TRAVEL TO & FROM SCHOOLS

While addressing disorder and violence in schools is critical, it is only part of the concern. Thus MPD's overall school safety strategy includes Safe Passage Operational Plans that address crime that youth may encounter while traveling to and from school. In addition to conflicts among associates that may flare up when students leave the safety of school, students may also fall victim to the same types of stranger crimes that any individual may face, such as robbery or assault. As such, MPD works both to reduce crimes of opportunity and to deter potential targeted violence.

The Department works with other stakeholder agencies and resources to identify and support safe routes to and from school to major transportation points (e.g., Metro train and bus stops) after school dismissal. MPD coordinates with Metro Transit Authority Police and others to optimize safety and security in these areas. MPD patrol officers on foot, Segways, or bike beats are deployed to these routes to support Safe Passages. Depending on the specifics and logistics of the school, other resources may include school administrators, school crossing guards, the Department of Parks and Recreation's Roving Leaders, and private businesses along the route. These stakeholders ensure students are able to travel in these areas safely and without incident. Deployment and action plans to address hot issues are checked through daily conference calls between MPD, DCPS, DCPCS, Metro Transit, Roving Leaders, and contract security. Information is shared about incidents that may affect student safety at dismissal time, and additional resources are deployed if necessary.

The District Department of Transportation's (DDOT) School Crossing Guard program plays an important role in ensuring that elementary school students are safe as they travel to and from school. Crossing guards are posted at intersections near DCPS and charter schools to:

- Encourage youth to behave in a safe manner near traffic;
- Provide assistance if the natural traffic flow does not allow enough time for youth to safely cross a street;
- Alert motorists to the presence of pedestrian traffic; and
- Observe and report any incidents or conditions that present a potential hazard to youth.

EMERGENCY INCIDENTS AT SCHOOLS

Although the probability of a major emergency incident at a school may be lower than more routine crime and disorder, the risk to life and community is significant. Therefore preparing for these high risk scenarios is a top priority for MPD. With support from the Washington Regional Threat and Analysis Center, MPD continuously monitors for threats involving schools and stands ready to coordinate the deployment of personnel and resources in and around schools. The patrol districts have Incident Management Teams (IMT) trained to respond to and manage critical incidents, and all are trained to respond to active shooter situations. The School Safety Division and IMTs are supported by the DC Emergency and Safety Alliance, which provides centralized and quick access to District school emergency response plans and facility information. MPD coordinates with partner emergency response agencies, including DDOT, the District's Homeland Security and Emergency Management Agency, and the Department of Fire and Emergency Medical Services.

YOUTH ENGAGEMENT

School Resource Officers lead and participate in many initiatives to foster positive relationships with students, support a safe school environment, and encourage youth to be committed to their educational goals. These relationships with youth can also help deter them from at-risk behavior, including gang participation and drug abuse. Youth programs reach students from all grade levels, from elementary to high school and special education opportunities.

For instance, through the Junior Cadet Program sponsored by the DC Police Foundation, MPD worked with 123 fifth grade students at six participating elementary schools: Hendley, Seaton, Moten, Harriet Tubman, Friendship Blow-Pierce, Kramer, and Moten. The 40-week curriculum includes lessons on safety, civics, history, the mission and responsibilities of MPD, life skills development, prevention of drug abuse and violent behavior, and academic achievement. The program also includes field trips and events throughout the year. The Junior Cadet Program is taught by SROs and community partners in the business and the nonprofit community. This program builds character, fosters positive relationships between MPD and students, and keeps young participants interested in law enforcement.

The Junior Cadet Program also serves as a gateway to future participation in the MPD Cadet Program by keeping students focused on their education and opportunities. Participants in the MPD Cadet Program are recent District high school graduates employed by MPD in civilian positions. Working 20 hours a week, the cadets rotate through a variety of assignments, helping MPD fulfill its mission, while providing cadets with valuable exposure and experience within the Department. In addition to paying the cadets for their work, MPD funds their tuition at the University of the District of Columbia. Cadets convert to career police status upon completion of their Associate Degree program and enter recruit training to become sworn officers. In 2016, Mayor Bowser introduced and the Council passed the Law Enforcement Career Opportunity Amendment Act of 2016, to increase the pool of qualified cadet candidates by expanding the maximum age of program participants from 21 to 24 years of age. The program provides education and a career path to District youth while establishing a pool of talented recruit officers from the District who are available to MPD in the coming years.

During the school year, SSD members also provide mentoring to students from around the city through the Youth Advisory Council (YAC). Participants have an opportunity to learn about possible career paths and build strong relationships with adult mentors while giving back to the city through community service. Youth Advisory students meet monthly with SROs to engage in panel discussions, exchange ideas, and hear from motivational speakers. This past year, 76 members of the Youth Advisory Council teamed with the Travis Manion Foundation for the “If Not Me, Then Who...” campaign. In addition, the students participated in community service projects such as MPD’s annual “Shop with a Cop” program, took field trips to the Howard University Trauma Unit, and the African American Civil War Museum. The students received healthy eating advice from DC Central Kitchen, and gave valuable feedback on the youth perspective about MPD’s new body-worn camera program.

In addition, the Junior Police Academy provides the District’s Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP) employees with an opportunity to learn more about how a police department operates. Participants learn about college, financial aid for college, and other careers in criminal justice, politics, and law. In 2016, this program provided approximately 50 youth participants exposure to various positions within MPD, including the Homicide Unit and Recruiting Division, as well as judges at the Superior Court. Tours included the Law Enforcement Memorial, MPD Headquarters, and the Museum of Crime and Punishment. MPD also works with the SYEP program through Students Taking Another Route to Success (STARS). STARS is a summer enrichment camp that supports civic understanding, mentoring, life, basic skills, and job training to approximately 100 youth each summer.

Table 1: School Resource Officers Supporting DCPS and Public Charter Schools

The SROs are deployed in a cluster model, with each SRO supporting multiple schools. While high schools receive the most attention due to size and complexity of issues, SROs also provide outreach to middle schools. Roving SROs are a resource for school administrators, coordinating Safe Passages, targeted student outreach, and programs. These officers also coordinate conflict mediations if needed, and lend support and provide resource information to at-risk students. In addition, an evening team of SROs supports extended school days and sporting and entertainment events for students and offer programming for the adult student population.

Table 2: Contract Security Guard Deployment at DCPS

The initial deployment plan for contract security guards at DCPS is included in the table below. However, it is subject to change to meet current and emerging safety needs. It is important to recognize that SROs do not serve as security guards. In addition, although we are active partners with Public Charter Schools in promoting school safety, MPD is not responsible for security matters at any PCS. The Department does not manage contract security for charter schools. Charters have the flexibility to fund their own individual programs and services, including investments in security, as they see fit with their Uniform per Student Funding Formula dollars. For instance, facility and environmental design is an essential component of crime prevention and security. Measures such as security doors, cameras, and alarms can greatly enhance security and reduce risk in a facility.
