You can help prevent terrorism in our back yard just by paying attention and speaking up.

The Washington region is a special place, one that we are privileged to call home. As the nation's capital, we have access to some of the country's greatest institutions, monuments, and museums. Unfortunately, terrorism continues to be a real threat here and elsewhere in the United States. There are those who would like to use these symbols as the backdrop to their plots and it's up to us to help stop them.

It is usually an individual business or service organization that will be the first to notice something out of the ordinary. When that happens, it is critical that these suspicions be immediately passed on to law enforcement, so that the information can be examined, evaluated and, if necessary, acted upon. The key to preventing terrorist incidents in our nation's capital is cooperation between law enforcement and the community.

What is Suspicious Behavior?

Each of us might think of different things when it comes to what appears suspicious. Here are some unusual behaviors that could be indicators of terrorist planning.

Surveillance Are you aware of anyone recording or monitoring activities, taking notes, using cameras, maps, binoculars, etc., in your neighborhood?

Stockpiling Supplies Have you observed abandoned vehicles, suspicious materials or trash that have accumulated, or unfamiliar persons loitering in your neighborhood?

Suspicious Persons/Questioning Has anyone attempted to gain unusual information in person, by phone, mail, or email regarding your business or a facility nearby?

Acquiring Supplies Are you aware of anyone trying to improperly acquire explosives, weapons, ammunition, or other dangerous materials that could be used in a terrorist act?
