Avoiding Becoming a Victim of Carjacking

Protecting Yourself and Your Vehicle from Loss or Personal Injury in a Carjacking

When you are on the road

» Drive in the center lane to make it harder for potential carjackers to approach the car.

» AVOID driving alone. Travel with someone whenever possible, especially at night.

» When you are coming to a stop, leave enough room to maneuver around other cars, especially if you sense trouble and need to get away.

» Always drive with the doors locked. If a thief can’t get in your vehicle, you stand a better chance of leaving with it.

» DON’T stop to assist a stranger whose car has broken down. You can help instead by driving to the nearest phone (or using your cell phone) to call police for help.

Getting out of your vehicle

» Park in well-lit areas, near sidewalks or walkways. AVOID parking near dumpsters, large vans or trucks, woods, or anything else that limits your visibility.

» Try to park in a garage with an attendant. Leave only the ignition key, with no identification.

» Even if you’re rushed, LOOK AROUND before you get out and STAY ALERT to the surroundings. Again, trust your instincts if the situation doesn’t “feel right,” and get away.

Get Involved!

No one individual or agency working alone can prevent crime. It takes police and citizens working in partnership. The District of Columbia’s community policing strategy provides many ways for police and communities to work together to prevent crime and build safer neighborhoods. These include regular Police Service Area meetings in your community, citizen patrols and more. To learn more about community policing activities in your neighborhood, call your local police district:

Your car is replaceable. You’re not.

Carjacking is a crime of violence that can be particularly scary. Knowing how to respond in a situation may mean the difference between serious injury or death and walking away unscathed.

The crime of “carjacking” — which is stealing a car by force — captures headlines across the country. Statistically speaking, however, your chances of being a victim of carjacking are very slim, and taking preventive measures can reduce that risk even more.

Who Does It Happen To?

Carjacking is a crime of opportunity — a criminal searching for the most vulnerable potential victim. Sometimes it is the first step in another crime.

Up until 1993, carjacking was reported as either armed robbery or auto theft in the District of Columbia. In response to several highly-publicized incidents, the D.C. Council passed laws providing stiffer penalties for individuals arrested and convicted of carjacking. It is critical that response to several highly-publicized incidents, the D.C. It is critical that you will not become the victim of a carjacker; however, there is no guarantee that you or someone close to you will not become the victim of a carjacker.

Reducing Your Risk of Becoming a Victim

There are no guarantees that you or someone close to you will not become the victim of a carjacker; however, there are a number of things that you can do to reduce the risk of becoming a victim.

Getting in your vehicle

Walk with purpose and STAY ALERT!

Be wary of people asking for directions or handing out fliers. TRUST YOUR INSTINCTS! If something makes you feel uncomfortable or uneasy, get into your car quickly, lock the doors and drive away.

ALWAYS approach your car with the key in your hand. Look around, under and inside the car before you get in.

When you are on the road

ALWAYS keep your doors locked and windows rolled up (if it’s hot and you don’t have air conditioning, roll them up at least part-way) no matter how short the distance you’re traveling or how safe the neighborhood.

Drive in the center lane to make it harder for potential carjackers to approach the car.

AVOID driving alone. Travel with someone whenever possible, especially at night.

When you are coming to a stop, leave enough room to maneuver around other cars, especially if you sense trouble and need to get away.

DON’T stop to assist a stranger whose car has broken down. You can help instead by driving to the nearest phone (or using your cell phone) to call police for help.

Getting out of your vehicle

Park in well-lighted areas, near sidewalks or walkways.

AVOID parking near dumpsters, large vans or trucks, woods, or anything else that limits your visibility.

NEVER leave valuables out in plain view, even if the car is locked. ALWAYS put them in the trunk or out of sight.

Try to park in a garage with an attendant. Leave only the ignition key, with no identification.

Even if you’re rushed, LOOK AROUND before you get out and STAY ALERT to the surroundings. Again, trust your instincts if the situation doesn’t “feel right,” and get away. Where Do Carjackers Find Their Victims?

Carjacking can take place anywhere, although some locations are more common:

» ATMs (automated teller machines)
» Self-serve gas stations and car washes
» Garages and parking lots of shopping malls, grocery stores and mass transit.
» Intersections that are controlled by stop lights or signs.
» Highway exit and entry ramps, or anyplace else where drivers slow down or stop.
» Residential driveways and streets as people get into and out of vehicles.
