

If you see something unusual in your neighborhood ...

If something just doesn't look right ...

You can help prevent terrorism in our back yard just by paying attention and speaking up. As you go about your daily routine, if you notice things that appear out of the ordinary — a person in a crowd wearing unusually bulky clothing, vehicles that have been parked for extended periods of time in your block, packages that have been left behind — you can provide instant information to law enforcement to take action, by using the new iWATCH public portal. Making a report takes only about five minutes following the series of on-screen questions. You can also include photos, video, or other attachments that may be helpful in conducting an investigation.

if you SEE something
SAY something™

Make a report at iwatchdc.dc.gov

Metropolitan Police Department Washington, DC

