

Restructuring the Patrol Services and School Safety Bureau

Effective Sunday, April 23, 2017, the Patrol Services and School Safety Bureau will be divided into two bureaus: Patrol Services North (PSN) Bureau and Patrol Services South (PSS) Bureau. The Patrol Services North Bureau will be comprised of the Second, Third, Fourth, and Fifth Police Districts and the Patrol Services South Bureau will be comprised of the First, Sixth, and Seventh Police Districts.

Each patrol bureau will be led by a Patrol Chief, who will ensure a seamless transition and provide executive command leadership for MPD's patrol operations to better serve residents and meet community needs. This new structure supports the growth of the District of Columbia and will provide the Chief of Police and executive staff with additional visibility and insight into MPD's patrol activities and services.

Assistant Chief Lamar Greene will serve as the Patrol Chief of the PSN Bureau and Assistant Chief Robert Contee will serve as the Patrol Chief of the PSS Bureau. Both Assistant Chiefs Greene and Contee have extensive experience in patrol as well as in intelligence, special operations, and internal roles throughout the Department.

As part of this realignment, MPD's School Safety Branch (SSB) will move under the Investigative Services Bureau (ISB), reporting directly to the ISB Assistant Chief. This transition will help facilitate MPD's youth services and investigations, as well as more effectively align the Department's outreach and support efforts for children and families throughout the city.

Community Meetings

The MPD will host two community meetings to introduce the Patrol Chiefs, further describe these changes, and answer questions from community members. We invite all community members to attend these events and provide feedback about how the Department can better serve your needs.
